

Discover local flavours with Kai

Now it's easy to discover and enjoy the best of local artisan foods with new website kai.co.nz

Kai brings together New Zealand food products into one online store - making it easier and more convenient for keen foodies like you to discover and enjoy them, and support the local producers behind them. With Kai you can buy from many different artisans in one shopping bag, and have them all delivered to your place. We also put together collections of food products - ideal as a gift, or a treat for yourself. Check the website for the latest collections.

KAI COLLECTIONS

Looking for a gift or a treat for yourself? Try one of our Kai Collections - unique combinations of tasty artisan foods from around the country that we have put together for you.

Easter Collections – chocolate treats and baking for that special time of year. From $30

The Holiday Hamper – savoury, spicy and saucy treats. $195

The Cheese Club – join our new Kai Cheese Club and get a basket of your favourite cheeses each month. These include winners from the 2012 Specialty Cheesemakers Awards. Available exclusively on www.kai.co.nz. See the website for details.

PRODUCER PROFILES

Meet some of our artisans on Kai

Andre's Kitchen

Andre Wike

"I fell in love with baking after growing up with my Mum and Grandma baking all the time. I wanted to be a chef and am now living my dream, using those original recipes and tricks to make my range of cookies and crostini, which are available on Kai. I am always developing new recipes, and am also working on a range of gluten-free cakes."

Martinborough Manner

Penelope and Bill de Boer

"We started in Martinborough in 2006 with a bare block of land and have since planted over 500 fruit trees, berry plants and currant bushes, a citrus grove and huge vegetable gardens. Our preserves are crafted in traditional style using old family recipes. We use our own finest quality fruit, add no chemicals, and our handmade batches are small."

Telegraph Hill Olives

Geoff Crawford

A love of olives drew Geoff Crawford into growing and processing New Zealand's first table olives back in 2001. They continue to focus on the fruit, rather than just olive oil. "It really was a cottage industry – starting in a kitchen, then the garage and now we have a purpose-built Olivery," says

Geoff. "Table olives have often been cheaply produced ...with chemical preservatives but we use long barrel fermentation to remove bitterness and natural seasonings like lemon, garlic and herbs to bring out the flavours of the sun ripened olive."

The Seriously Good Chocolate Company

Jane Stanton

"We started in Te Anau as a simple dream. I took some chocolate truffles I had made, infused with Pinot Noir, to my favourite winery, Gibbston Valley. They loved them and ordered 50 boxes on the spot – a small business was born. Our recipes are handed down from my grandfather, Tik Heenan, and his passion is instilled in everything we do. We continue to create new flavours and concepts that promote New Zealand to the world through our chocolate."

Sweetree Honey

Stephanie and Martin Lynch

"We believe honey should be nutritious and flavoursome and reflect the area's flora and fauna. Our honeys are location specific, each representing the area and season the bees worked their magic. From the creamy, butterscotch flavour of the Four Brothers to the rich Marokopa Summer with its intense finish that dances on your tongue, the honeys are like great wines, each with their own character."

SPECIAL OFFER

For Dish readers we offer a sweet deal on our new artisan foods. Simply visit kai.co.nz, place your order and enter the special promotion code DAM12 at checkout to receive a 5% discount on your purchase.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS All prices are in NZ$ and include GST. Available only in New Zealand. Delivery charges extra – see www.kai.co.nz for details. Artisan foods are made in smaller quantities, so subject to availability other comparable products may be substituted for those shown. © Kai NZ Foods Limited, Auckland, New Zealand. www.kai.co.nz. 0800 524 500

www.kai.co.nz